Abstract

The main topic of this article is the relation between the departments of Sociology and the academic profession with the organization of the Colombian sociological community, and in particular with the professional sociology applied in fields other than the university academic profession. When mapping the nexus between sociology and labor market in Colombia, the place of academic sociology, its ways of producing knowledge, and its relation with sociology and the state are tensed, from the point of the "practical uses" of sociology.

Keywords

Knowledge, uses and practices, sociology, labor market, professions.