Abstract

TIC’s are the best facilitator that allows organizations to improve processes and streamline the management of them in the Information Society and Knowledge in which we are immersed. In this vein, the government should jump on the bandwagon of development and invest in the modernization of their processes.

Keywords

Modernization, Organizational Change, Information Technology and Communications, Public Administration.