Abstract

In this paper we present a comprehensive review of the coordination issues in agent-based systems. First, we introduce the concepts of agent and multiagent systems, and define the concept of coordination between agents. Then, we analyze and compare different types of coordination and describe some techniques by which coordination can be implemented. Finally, we compare different coordination models and languages.

Keywords

Agent Coordination, Multiagent Systems, Coordination Models, Coordination Languages.