Abstract
This article deals with three novels from the Southern Cone’s recent production. All of them have in common the recreation of a universe originally shaped in traditional fairy tales. It is remarkable in very case that said approximation is characterized by highlighting ominous aspects of infancy, by configuring a gaze that approaches that universe from the perspective of monstrosity.

Keywords
Novels from The Southern Cone, Childhood, Fairy Tales, Bio-political.