Abstract

This bibliographical research presents a view of the pragmatic development of the mother tongue. It describes the pre-linguistic phase; it tackles on sociofunctional language development and it characterizes the development of the mother tongue from the perspective of sensory integration and socio-affective factors. Finally, it focuses on the development of conversational abilities.