Abstract
The author intends to offer a linguistic, analytical description of the logic form shown in existentialistic presuppositions associated with the real use of singular verbal tenses. This analysis must be considered as an attempt to elucidate the semantic structure of declarative sentences.