Abstract
This paper focuses on the concept of volunteerism in Social Work university students, analysing their main motivations for this behaviour. We also study different aspects about volunteer students. The research shows that, when we refer to volunteerism, we can better speak about a helping behaviour than about an altruist motivation.

Keywords
Volunteerism, motivation, altruist behaviour, helping behaviour