Abstract

Every qualitative research requires theoretical and methodological tools in order to develop analytical processes of given data. This article proposes some theories and some methods to help researchers at the analytical treatment they usually do. Social representations is one theory that is related to identity processes theories and professional identities, it also treats structural analysis method.

Keywords

Quality research, theoretical and methodology tools, identity process, professional identities, structural analysis method.