Abstract

The origin, reach and definition of the Information Architecture, within the processes of implementation and creation of a Web site are defined with the aim of relating them with the Life Cycle of Information proposed by Viscaya. Based on this analysis, a Life Cycle of information in the Web is proposed and conclusions presented.

Keywords

Life cycle of information, information architecture, World Wide Web.