Abstract

This work is aimed at determining the variables that have influence on prostate cancer in men in Holguín province. The qualitative method is used. The main risk factors of the disease in our province are shown, which is very very important to prevent and to establish the early diagnosis of this disease.

Keywords

PROSTATE CANCER, DELPHI METHOD