Abstract
We analyze the social impact of science and technology in society through the performance of the products and services in a business intelligence unit and the key role it plays in decision making. Business intelligence units represent an important link in the decision making, process and its social impact we can see changes in the various sectors which are targeted their products and services.

Keywords
Business Intelligence Unit, social impact, decision making, business intelligence.