Abstract
This article compares the norms on human rights of the Peruvian constitutions of 1979 and 1993, analyzing the opinions of the Constitutional Court since 1993 and the impact on internal law of human rights treaties and the decisions of the Inter-American Commission and Court on Human Rights.

Keywords