Abstract

The history of educational reforms passed by the authorities is a history of frustration. Nevertheless teachers persist in seeking ways to create a better school. The author presents her personal experience in that search, starting with her educational foundations with reference to Infants School. Her vision is specific to the organization of classroom activities in projects. One example of these projects is presented in detail showing each step of its implementation.

Keywords

Educational reform, Infants School, Project Method.