Abstract

This text reflects upon the depth in extension. Through a journey in the labyrinths of density, the author dives into the time conventions of works of art. Theatre, film, dance, opera, compete in an open and unequal battle against the ephemeral, the immediate, the brief, the propagandistic and the concise.

Keywords

Cinema, theater, opera, boredom, extension.