Abstract
When ones observes the daily usage of Cameroonians, one concludes that this language is threatened. This paper attempts to analyse the reasons and the manifestations of the sense of insecurity towards the French language in Cameroon through linguistic and paralinguistic facts. What stems from our analysis is that, if the French language is threatened, the causes are inward and if power holders do not take stringent measures, Cameroonians will, in the future, be outcast of the French language.

Keywords