This paper explores the most important transformations that the global economy is going through. It focuses in aspects related to technological change, demographic dynamics, macroeconomic issues, climatic challenges and developments in the distribution of income. It also analyses the implications of these changes for the new balance of power in the global economy.

Keywords
International Economy, Macroeconomics, Climate Change, Demography, Technology.