Abstract
This research had as a main objective the design and implementation of a program of physiotherapy intervention through acupuncture for pain management of plantar fasciitis. For the development of this paper were used case study methodology, with a population of four patients with current diagnosis of pathology and presence of pain, underwent physiotherapy assessment and in traditional Chinese medicine, based on this information pose the treatment. The intervention was conducted in 12 sessions of 30 minutes, for four weeks. When we concluded the study, we evidenced significant changes in pain symptoms in the population group.

Keywords
Acupuncture, pain, Plantar Fasciitis, physiotherapy.