Abstract
The fundamental intention of this article is to explore the set of possible joints between temporality, history, and memory from a sociosemiotic perspective around the works of Latin American artists contained in the exhibition: "Disappeared" (2006, September 8 to October 16 - Curator of the Exhibition: Laurel Reuter).

Keywords
Temporality, history, memory, Latin American artists, socio-semiotic.