Abstract

Hereby is an approach to the research made during the last decade about the Middle Period or Tiwanaku Horizon, in the western valleys of northern Chile. Interpretative positions are given and compared by several researchers, and there are researching projects addressed as significant facts, according the author, for the comprehension of the Tiwanaku matter in northern Chile.

Keywords

Middle period (Towanaku), western valleys, northern Chile, research 1999-2000