Abstract
The wastewater treatment plant of Tulsk Village (Ireland) includes preliminary, secondary and tertiary treatment and it is monitored by Scada system. The plant counts with a sequential batch reactor, being a key element for the plant operation and compliance with EU wastewater standards. Therefore, this efficient treatment system is suggested to be considered when implementing future treatment plants in Peru.

Keywords
Environment, environmental impact, wastewater discharge.