Abstract
Nowadays nobody can ignore that education is an issue that preoccupies and occupies the nations all around the world, despite their different level of economic development. However, they are not highlighting the same features, according to the specific level that one or another nation could have on the capitalistic development, as victim or beneficiary. Globalization, keeping the general tendency of capitalism, now is opening to the developing countries many opportunities, if they are processed starting from an autonomous development model project. Higher Education Institutions can be seen as privileged instruments, which can carry farther the national development using internationalization. Mexico has strong Higher Education Institutions able to do this.
