Abstract

The air transport of passengers has grown a lot in Europe during the last thirty years. The air traffic concentrates on a basic network of main airports. The airports of London highlight in that hierarchy. The tourism is one of the basic reasons that favors that air traffic of passengers. They stand out this way certain airports specialized in that traffic type.

Keywords

air transport, leisure, tourism, urban systems, European Union.