Abstract
The industrial activity, of any time, has a great importance for the man, because like the rest of the economic processes, is the reflection of daily driving of the society on the space. Considering this, the present article must like objective present to the industrial heritage like resource to organize tourist routes that allow in some cases of recovering industrial spaces left or to use industrial establishments in operation but which they can be gotten up to this type of tourist development. The creation of tourist routes can allow the reactivation of the local economies, to really constitute itself in a new economic activity. In order to obtain this it is necessary to articulate the public sector and the private one. Of this form it is possible, through the creation of tourist routes of the industrial heritage, to generate local tourist a development sustainable.

Keywords