Abstract
This essay recovers the spirit of change of Marc Bloch and Lucien Febvre as a preamble to see the itinerary of cultural history, particularly through the history of art and culture, and gender history. Alternatives to the resistance to change and fragmentation in historical practice.

Keywords
New cultural history, gender history, modernity-postmodernity, annales school.