Abstract

The paper defines collection assessment and explains the methods of made it. Most important systems of collection assessment are described, especially those of them grounded in the direct method of analysis of collections. Finally, the standards and performance indicators for collections at university libraries are studied.

Keywords

University libraries. Collection assessment. Performance indicators