Abstract
This article discusses some significant factors that have shaped the architecture and design from the late 18th century until the present in the region of Baja California and California border areas. Focuses attention on architectural styles Victorian and Missional Californian pointing the way in which have been shared by these two entities.

Keywords
Style, architectonic shapes, frontier, Baja California, California.