Abstract
This article points out the academic and biographical conditions that are present when carrying out a research process. As example, the writing of the history of a soccer club, the subject of the researcher’s position, his own opinions and the problems of this type of investigation are stated. The concrete phases of the research work are also described.

Keywords
Sport, methodology, history