Abstract
The objective of the present article is to make a review about organizational psychology in Colombia beginning from its origin development, present statement and projection in the future. Along this historical period changes are evident in psychologist functions and profile in each moment. At the same time, prospective studies are presented in order to determine knowledge, skills and attitudes that may be part of organizational psychologist profile in XXI century

Keywords
organizational psychology, retrospective vision and prospective vision