Abstract
In this paper the author refers to geographic sphere of application of the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods, (article 1.1.a). Such norm establishes that the Convention will apply in the events in which the contractual parties have its place of business in different States, when those States are the Contracting States. The author refers to the concept of place of business, multiple places of business and absent place of business.

Keywords
International sale of goods, geographic sphere of application, place of business.