Abstract

The present article refers to the importance that has the planning of the maintenance inside any type of company that wants to reach high levels of quality. In addition there is done a brief historical review of the changes that has had the models implementation of maintenance in the industry.

Keywords

Maintenance, machine, performance, process of production, fault, stop.