Abstract

The paper presents a framework based on SCRUM practices applied to manage the design of the different versions of the Final Project Application//Trabajo Final de Aplicación project, a document that specifies the technology product to develop in order to obtain the Bachelor's degree. The proposal applies SCRUM from conception of the idea, in the process of project developing and finally with the project submission for formal approval.

Keywords

Project design, Higher Education, University Degree (1st Level) or Dissertations, Scrum.