Abstract

In this work it was determined the antifungal activity of ethanolic extracts from six medicinal plant species against four Aspergillus section flavi strains isolated from farm animal feeds. Two fungi were aflatoxigenics and three vegetal extracts showed similar biocidal activity than synthetic organic acids used as preservatives of foods and feeds.

Keywords

Mycotoxins, antifungal, Aspergillus, aflatoxins.