Abstract
An Introduction to the Production of Essential Lemon Oil

All essential oils are complex mixtures of substances that provide flavor and fragrance to many foods; however, they are also used in the cosmetics industry. Lemon is one of the most widely used essential oils and Argentina is among the leading producers worldwide. This paper deals with the main processes applied and the supporting technical information.